Tutoring Experience

I began my teaching journey in 2009 and have since worked extensively with students preparing for IB, A-Level, and IGCSE Psychology. My expertise lies in guiding students through complex topics like research methodologies, experiments, and cognitive psychology. I enjoy helping students analyse case studies and refine their critical thinking skills.

Over the years, I have also mentored students in crafting high-quality extended essays and tackling challenging assessments. My experience with diverse curriculums has equipped me to tailor my teaching to the unique needs of each student, ensuring they achieve their academic goals.
